

THE FRAMEWORK AT A GLANCE

The Out-of-Sync Child

Fourteen chapters · three movements · one steady message

MOVEMENT I

Recognize

Seeing the Out-of-Sync Child

01

Four Out-of-Sync Children

Four different faces, one shared struggle to organize sensation.

02

Does Your Child Have SPD?

Not that he won't — that he can't. A nervous-system difference.

03

Another Diagnosis?

SPD rarely travels alone — look past the lookalikes.

04

Understanding Sensory Processing

Eight senses; one cycle — input, organize, output.

MOVEMENT II

Decode the Senses

The Sense-by-Sense Tour

05

The Tactile Sense

Touch protects (uh-oh) and touch teaches (aha).

06

The Vestibular Sense

The unifying sense — which way is up.

07

The Proprioceptive Sense

The muscle sense that both calms and arouses.

08

The Visual Sense

Vision isn't eyesight — it's built by moving.

09

The Auditory Sense

We listen — and speak — with the whole body.

MOVEMENT III

Support & Thrive

Coping and Building a Sensory-Smart Life

10

Diagnosis & Treatment

Trust your instincts; seek therapy that feels like play.

11

Your Child at Home

A sensory-enriched life, woven into the day.

12

Your Child at School

Make school feel more like home.

13

Coping with Emotions

See the fear, not the defiance.

14

A New Light

Unable, not unwilling. Think abilities.

“With your knowledge about sensory processing, and with your loving support, your child can flourish and grow to become in sync with the world.”

— Carol Stock Kranowitz

Observe · Adapt · Advocate

The whole book distilled into what a parent actually does

PHASE 1

Observe

Learn to See the Profile

- 1.1 Chart the hard times — and the good times.
- 1.2 Ask, “What does he avoid?”
- 1.3 Learn the eight senses and the six types.
- 1.4 Watch for the red flags.
- 1.5 Separate SPD from the lookalikes.
- 1.6 Trust your instincts — then get an evaluation.
- 1.7 Keep a chronological record.

PHASE 2

Adapt

Build the Sensory-Smart Life

- 2.1 Build a sensory-enriched life, not a rigid diet.
- 2.2 Match the input to the need.
- 2.3 Lead with heavy work.
- 2.4 Follow the child's lead — and honor “stop means stop.”
- 2.5 Turn everyday objects into therapy.
- 2.6 Support self-help with small steps.
- 2.7 Prepare the child for therapy as fun.

PHASE 3

Advocate

Protect Emotions, School, and the Relationship

- 3.1 See the difficulty, not the defiance.
- 3.2 Discipline to teach, not to punish.
- 3.3 Make school feel more like home.
- 3.4 Be an articulate advocate.
- 3.5 Give a sense of control and safe outlets.
- 3.6 Reframe the story you tell.
- 3.7 Take care of yourself — and don't go it alone.
