BARTLETT'S CLOSER

"Every coach needs a coach."

— Bill Bartlett

"Effective sales coaching is not showing them how to do it." — Bill Bartlett

Assess. Engage. Sustain.

The lifecycle of a coaching session. Pin this. Glance before every one.

PHASE 01

ASSESS

Before the first session

Benchmark

Rate top 10 behaviors 1–10. Below 7 means training first.

Assess inside

Divine Inventory or DISC — surface what observation can't.

Run gap analysis

As-is to be-state. Set the 90-day roadmap together.

Type them

Self-taught, renegade, player, or continuous learner.

Find the why

Five whys deep until you hit the personal reason.

Place on 20-60-20

Nurture top, traction middle, prove worth bottom.

PHASE 02

ENGAGE

Inside every session

Set the contract

Goals, time, agenda, methodology, environment, actions.

Three Ps of trust

Potency, permission, protection — every session, every time.

Open well-better

Three things they did well in the last call. Always.

Run the seven steps

Assess, set goals, define, execute, review, modify, evaluate.

Listen 70, ask 30

Active listening, dummy curve, striplining, reversing.

Play the movie

Frame by frame. 'Then what happened?' until the truth surfaces.

Close with action

Specific behaviors. 20 days. Measured. No exceptions.

PHASE 03

SUSTAIN

Between sessions and across the arc

Run 20-day cycles

New behavior imprints at 20 days. Most quit at 13.

Keep both journals

Theirs daily, yours per rep. Review at 20 and 90.

Watch the dashboard

Suspects, F2Fs, proposals, closes, prospecting hours.

More, better, different

Three levers when results don't follow behavior.

Hold the cadence

Every two weeks minimum. Velocity matters.

Audit the triangle

Capacity, capability, competency. Every 90 days.

Get your own coach

Every coach needs a coach. No exceptions to this one.
